

From Heartache to Hope

middle tennessee families living with autism

Stunning black-and-white photography and moving prose tell the stories, from heartache to hope, of 18 Middle Tennessee families living with autism. They range from those dwelling in rural outposts to urban settings. Their family structures vary as do their racial and socio-economic make-up. But, pieced together like the enigmatic autism puzzle, they tell the universal autism story. Written by Leisa A. Hammett and photographed by Rebekah Pope, proceeds from this coffee table, art documentary style book support the work of ASMT, a Middle Tennessee autism support organization. Gift yourself. Gift a friend or family member. Support an important cause.
